Eastern Dock Unions Fined For Contempt

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—The International Longshoremen's association, Ind., and eight of its locals were fined a total of $92,500 last night in a criminal contempt action growing out of the recent waterfront strike.

In addition, three local officials received jail sentences—two of them to three months and one to six months.

The parent union which was thrown out of the AFL for alleged racketeer domination, was fined $50,000. Seven of the locals were assessed $5,000 each. Local 824, known as the "pistol local" for its record of violence, was fined $7,500.

This was far below the fines asked by the national labor relations board, which instituted the action. The NLRB had asked that the ILA be fined $25,000 a day for each day of the 29-day strike. It also asked fines of $100,000 each against the eight locals.

Specifically, the defendants were charged with violating a federal court order which banned any ILA interference with handling of goods from trucks operated by members of the AFL Teamsters union.

The teamsters were strongly allied with an AFL International Longshoremen's association which is battling the old ILA for control of waterfront labor.

McCarthy Praises Coverage of News

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R. Wis., yesterday said that newsmen have provided "more accurate coverage" of the McCarthy-army hearings "than any other hearing I have been in."

He attributed this partly to "the influence of television." He said that inasmuch as the public sees what is going on their TV sets "some of the left-wingers" cannot distort their dispatches about the hearings.

"I would like to say that this is no reflection upon the vast number of working press... who are completely honest, completely competent," McCarthy said.

"I am referring to some of the bleeding heart columnists. Television has kept them straightened out a bit."

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—Overenthusiastic administration guarantees against further communist aggressions are held responsible for our disastrous diplomatic defeat at Geneva and the possibility of "another Munich" in Indochina. Although motivated by the best intentions, the "great American bluff" had nothing behind it, and was called by Russian and Chinese gamblers. They are skilled in the slow, patient intricacies of chess rather than the more impetuous poker.

The men who engineered this dangerous and unsuccessful gamble, in order of importance, were President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon, Secretary Dulles, and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. Too late, they discovered that neither our main allies—Britain and France—nor the American congress would back them up. The result was our worst diplomatic setback since Yalta.

The principals in the fiasco recognized these facts in recent analyses of Geneva and Indochina possibilities with key members of congress. They have had a hard lesson in the evils of headstrong diplomacy. In the current attempt to retrieve these blunders, they will proceed more carefully in order to contain the reds' plain plan to conquer southeast Asia and India, and to drive the western powers out of the far east. A battle has been lost, but not the war.

DULLES TO MOVE MORE CAUTIOUSLY—Dulles is now building on these blunders, as he informed congress on his return from Geneva. He insists that the West must continue to apply counterpressure to the explosive forces of communism wherever they threaten.

He will move more slowly, more cautiously, and with more advance planning, to create an anti-communist organization in southeast Asia. He expects the solid backing of Australia, New Zealand, Japan, the Philippines, Thailand, Laos, Vietnam, Cambodia, and possibly Malaysia and Burma. Once this alliance has been organized, he is confident that Britain and France will become members.

Dulles' post-Geneva role will be ironic, for he must now try to solve the problem he did so much to create.

"MASSIVE RETALIATION" ALARM—The secretary of state led off in the daring venture with the address in which he warned of "massive retaliation," implying that we would make atomic attacks on Russian and Chinese cities instead of stamping out scattered brush fires in Korea and southeast Asia. He coupled this statement with a call for "united action" and a Pacific NATO.

As noted here at the time, he did not consult Capitol Hill, London or Paris before he issued this ultimatum. The British and French expressed alarm lest they be caught in the middle, especially as Malenkov accepted the Dulles challenge to atomic battle. London and Paris turned down the pact because (1) it might provoke World War III and (2) it would prejudice any chance of a peaceful compromise at Geneva.

NIXON'S "OFF-RECORD" TALK—Nixon compounded this confusion when he declared in his "off the record" speech to 500 editors that the U.S. might have to send ground forces to Indochina. He caused a cabinet crisis in London and Paris.

Worse still, Nixon had been advocating this course even more insistently at private dinners here. His remarks were carefully noted by foreign representatives and forwarded to their home offices. Eisenhower did not repudiate the V.P.'s remarks, giving credence to the belief that he spoke for the White House.

Meanwhile, at Washington war councils, Radford argued that naval and air offensives alone would save Dien-Bien-Phu, and drive the reds from Indochina. On this question he was opposed by his three associates—General Ridgway, General Twining and Admiral Curney. Air and naval forces, they felt, must eventually be supported by land troops.

Churchill and Eden, after an emergency cabinet meeting, refused to commit British forces. Eisenhower then rejected a direct French appeal for separate and independent American reinforcements.

U. S. PROGRAM COLLAPSED—Eisenhower's attitude was both puzzling and equivocal during this critical period. At first he declared that the loss of southeast Asia would be a "catastrophe." But he offset this by saying that large-scale American intervention would be a "disaster." He added that he would never intervene without congressional sanction, and Capitol Hill was in no mood to approve "another Korea."

Thus, the American program for "massive retaliation," "united action" and a southeast Asia alliance has collapsed. At Geneva Foreign Ministers Molotov and Chou-En-lai strut like ancient Asiatic conquerors. And American prestige has fallen to a historic low in lands where "face" is everything.

WHEAT, SOIL AND SHIPS

News writers are commissioned to report the facts and give readers information upon which they may form opinions. If they desire, editorial writers scan the news reports and by commenting upon them, adding pertinent background and tying in corollary material, assist in the process of arriving at an opinion.

A small news story dated Astoria, Ore., a few days ago provided just a few facts from which quite an interesting commentary can be developed. It told that a contract had been let, at a cost of $155,000, for removal of 3,845,000 cubic yards of solid material from Cathlamet bay, in the Columbia river. The reason: Anchorage of 68 merchant ships there is required, and these will be filled with surplus Pacific northwest wheat when tied up.

It struck us that quite a story lies behind the efforts which have been made in our inland Empire to produce wheat which, instead of going into ships for consuming nations around the globe, will lie in bottoms with title passing to the federal government.

And in the hustle and bustle of adding acres and increasing output of wheat, more and more of the inland Empire's valuable topsoil has run off the land each spring. Where has that topsoil come to rest? Why, some of it in Cathlamet bay, where it must now be dredged and moved along, so that all that excess wheat may be immobilized.

One could go on, in a philosophical vein, at quite some length with these facts and related ones for working material. Just think of how much more good soil we might still have, how much deeper the lower reaches of the Columbia might be, had politics and economics not been so scrambled together in recent years!—Walla Walla Union-Bulletin.

WONDERS OF NATURE

An agricultural experimenter at the University of Maryland has developed a strain of chickens that will never bother the neighbor's garden—unless they dig under the fence. By selective breeding their wings have been "clipped" to where they cannot fly over an 18-inch barrier.

This suggests that the researcher might have got a similar result by importing New Zealand kiwi birds, which do not have wings. Perhaps, though, it would have taken even more effort to acclimate the kiwi to North America as successfully as the eucalyptus tree has been adapted to California and to make its flesh taste like southern fried chicken.

Many Americans, of course, are familiar with the department-oven-sized turkey developed by the department of agriculture's Beltsville experiment farm to meet the requirements of a civilization that lives in smaller family groups.

To this accomplishment, according to the ladies who write the food pages, there has been added a redesigned watermelon, about the size of a cantaloupe, to fit in a refrigerator shelf without cutting.

It is rather a reversion of the American tradition to be developing smaller rather than larger editions of familiar items, or creatures with inhibitions on their wing-power, even to "improve on nature." Meanwhile, human beings build larger airplanes and, according to some records, grow taller, bulkier bodies than their grandparents. But are they in all respects adapting themselves to a changing world as capably as the plants and animals on which they impress their patterns?—Christian Science Monitor.

POT SHOTS

NOT THAT DESPERATE

Dear Pot Shots:
It never occurred to me to buy an ad, "Husband Wanted," as Old Bachelor (Twin Falls) wrote I might just as well do.

That's the trouble there are men of some sort. I'm still choosy but not desperate.

Just how old are they before they put on their track shoes and why? I'm still looking around.

IN THE CHIPS

Dear Pot Shots:
If you can't answer this question for me, maybe one of your readers can. So far I haven't got much satisfaction.

I went into a cigar store, for I felt it a poolhall, beer joint or whatever you want to try to buy baseball tickets. The man showed me a cigar box full of money. He said he'd sold all the tickets and couldn't seem to get any more.

He also said he couldn't get anyone to come around and pick up the money.

Here all the time I thought the ball club needed support and needed money. I've been under the impression us good fans should buy tickets, but has anyone tried to buy one downtown lately?

Most men would rather touch a snake than a damp dish towel, says the Office Husband.

ONE SOLUTION

Dear Pot Shots:
There has been so much in the paper lately about jaywalking that I would like to add my two cents' worth. Although I don't live in Twin Falls, I shop there regularly and am interested in the problem.

Here's my idea: If those responsible for such things would paint the two blocks each way from the Main-Shoshone intersection, there should be little need for special police patrolling downtown except for the meters. Or does the city need the revenue that badly?

Thred Mother
(Hazelton)

F. S. note: Maybe we can answer that one. It seems to us there used to be such crosswalks several years back. They were discontinued because of the added hazard of folks stepping out from behind parked cars.

EASY OUT

That business of whiskers and the Golden Jubilee celebration might give some of the more lazy gents a ready excuse.

For instance, suppose a guy oversleeps one of these mornings. He has just enough time to get to work on schedule if he doesn't take time out to shave. So he dashes to work without shaving, tells anyone who is interested that he decided to grow some brush for the Jubilee.

Naturally, he can shave the next morning and still not give away his good excuse. All he has to do is offer the simple explanation that they got to itching and he changed his mind.

We wouldn't recommend too frequent use of this excuse. It might tend to give itself away after awhile.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK—Senator McCarthy and his activities have had a very bad press in Great Britain, and the British people, dependent on low-grade journalism for information as the raw material for opinion, have a contemptuous opinion of the whole affair. That is more their hard luck than ours.

The best consolation lies in the fact that it makes little difference to us what they think of us or our political folkways. However, it does make a difference what the Irish think of the McCarthy because our blood ties are strong and warm by contrast with our diluted and embittered relations with the British, for whom many of us have lost even that forced and artificial crush of the two war periods.

As bearing on this subject of Irish public opinion on the McCarthy matter, I think the comments of the bishop of Cork, the Most Rev. Dr. Lucey, deserve wider presentation than they received on April 3 when he landed home from a visit to the United States. Incidentally, but to the point, he brought back 30,000 pounds, which would be about $84,000, in subscriptions from American Irish Catholics for the Cork diocesan churches fund.

I had read nothing about this fund or the American donations in our papers although that may have been my oversight. However, I am certain that the subject has received nothing like the volume of publicity that has been raised in the New York Times and the Herald Tribune for an American subscription to a killy to repair Westminster Abbey and for other politico-religious projects beyond the seas.

The Cork Weekly Examiner reported that as to McCarthy, the bishop said: "Here in Ireland, we have been sadly misinformed. McCarthy's job was one that had to be done if people valued the free way of life. To represent him as has been done as a disreputable and gross misrepresentation."

I had not heard that the Irish press, like the British, had given McCarthy the pro-communist smear, but that I infer from this comment. In direct quotes, the Examiner said the bishop put it this way:

"McCarthy's job is to ferret out communists and would-be communists—the people who were giving tongue in Moscow accents in the 'forties when the whole world was slipping into communism and who would again if the tide against Russia began to turn. It is an unsavory job because they are a slippery, unsavory lot."

"But surely it is a job that should be done if people value the free way of life. Certainly it is a job that the average American approves of. Not all McCarthy's suspects have been proved guilty, but very many of them have, as many as in any police questioning of suspects after a crime has been perpetrated. People I met in America were shocked at the way McCarthy has been condemned without a hearing in Ireland."

"My visit was as profitable as it was pleasant. I received nearly 30,000 pounds for our church's appeal fund. From his eminence, Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles, I received $10,000 on behalf of himself, his clergy and his people. His eminence, Cardinal Spellman, of New York, presented me with $7,500 in appreciation of the part our emigrants played in building up his great archdiocese."

"Most of the money, however, came from the archdiocese of Boston, where everybody from the archbishop down helped. He is a great churchman and a good friend of Cork and we owe him more than we ever hope to repay."

The impression received by this Irish prelate on a tour of the country mainly in the society of Irish Catholics is expressed in terms of unusual interest to those concerned, and I believe, most other Americans, "United States was a great country to visit and to settle in," he said.

"And, as I met not only those who emigrated in recent years but the descendants of the emigrants of 30, 50, 100 years ago, I could not but be struck by their deep attachment to Ireland and to things Irish."

"They have kept the strong, simple, matter-of-fact faith of their fathers. And to faith they add good works in abundance. In Boston, for instance, one could not feel proud of the part Irish emigrants in general, and Cork folk in particular, have played in making the church the influence it is in American life."

"Emigration is not an unmixing evil. It has given Ireland an overseas empire more enduring and more ennobling than any achieved by conquest. And it has given to our emigrants, bread and work and a home and a good way of life. In my opinion, for those who have to emigrate, America very definitely is the place to emigrate to."

Controversy inevitably ensues upon such expressions and for the opposite view there is no more vigorous or representative exponent than Mrs. Dorothy Schiff, New York, who hates McCarthy and "McCarthyism."

On March 21, Mrs. Schiff wrote that McCarthy was "the shame of Wisconsin" and pounced upon an expression used by the principal speaker at a St. Patrick's day party in Chicago where Joe was guest of honor.

The speaker said McCarthy was typical of Americans of Irish ancestry and Mrs. Schiff said the party saddened her because it supported the belief "held by most non-Catholics that McCarthyism is fully sanctioned by the church and those of its older adherents who are of Irish background. I think I understand why the old-line Irish Catholics fail to realize the menace of McCarthyism. Their fear of communism is so great that their intelligence is paralyzed."

All this may not promote "understanding," but at least it will clarify the issues of an important misunderstanding.

Snail's Pace Really Is Slow

"When I'm dressing my mother talks about a snail's pace. Just how fast does that mean I am?" asks Miss B. R. P. age 8, via the San Diego Tribune. "I can never bring off a good cry the way they do in the movies."

"Does odor have weight?" asks R. E. B., of the Logan (Utah) Herald-Journal.

I think I get what your mother means about a snail's pace. You see, I have a pair of identical daughters, also 8, and occasionally one is slower than the other in dressing. But to test your question, I "timed" a garden-variety snail during an overcast day. He churned up 11 inches in five and one-half hours—that is two inches to the hour, during daylight. Nighttime, I understand, they speed up. But rare is the snail that could make better than one mile in 15 days without stopping for refreshments.

But then, some snails can go for years without eating. The best story I ever heard concerned a snail put on display in the Natural History Museum, London, glued to a card. One day, its mind at last made up, the supposedly "dead" snail cut loose, pulled up its foot from the card, and went sliding along in search of its belated breakfast—belated for the almost four years. It had been sitting there, motionless, making up its mind.

For your own satisfaction, pick one up in the woods, put it in a dry cage without food and water, and it will close up house in midsummer, and remain in this condition until moisture is again provided. . . and then hasten away, at perhaps two inches an hour!

Bringing off a good tear-jerking cry with real salty tears—not synthetic Hollywood grease drops—calls for a wet nose by the very nature of things.

Tear glands, almond-shaped and size, are located above the outer corner of the eyes. Normally, they release a small amount of the salty fluid to lubricate the eye and moisten the parts between the eye and the eyelid at the same time preventing infection by bacteria and germs.

When a person feels some emotion, such as joy or laughter, the muscles tear glands tighten up and out through the eyelid there is an excess of tears. Spills out of the eyes and a combination of tear-drops and a wet nose is almost inevitable.

I have purposely put warring this question of several weeks. R. E. B. is a difficult one—and I am flattered that not enough is about odor and scent.

Let me state it this way—yet when weighed, a loss of weight is detected—and man is poor in comparison to animals—when ed in water in the proper to 10 million! Sweetly garden-variety snails are tums for 5,000 years a distinctly discernible.

The U. S. bureau of this to say: "The sense is caused by minute odororous substance evaporating. In other words, the nose—has some weight little."

A scientist has estimated particles of odor must be 1/100,000 of an inch in diameter. Complementary smells cancel each other: Garlic oranges blossom, and acid masks the odor of the organs of smell. The organs of smell are quite easily and sensitive to a smell after a few minutes, although sensitive to any new smell if you smell something of what it is—you don't way yourself!

The of Gold oney Found Ohio Sewer

LAND, May 12 (AP)—A group of hunters, hunting their ball in a sewer, stumbled upon a treasure of gold coins yesterday.

Schott, 11, Billy Demble, 8, and Cooper, 12, weren't disheartened when their ball rolled through a hole in the sewer and into a catch basin. They waited right down after it, and a layer of mud in the bottom of the basin they found 18 inches of mud.

Under six inches of mud, the youngsters started digging. But before they could get to their find, bigger boys showed up, pushed them down, and grabbed the coins—all but John Schott clutched in his hand.

John Schott showed the coins to Dr. John Gluck, a dentist. They were dated 1860, 1880 and 1890. Gluck paid Johnny $38 for them.

John had no idea how the coins got into the sewer. The last gold coins were minted in 1933, the year the gold was withdrawn from circulation.

NTIC CITY, N. J., May 12 (AP)—President Walter P. Reuther today for "bold, intelligent, humane" use of U. S. food to win the free world new in the cold war.

Reuther prepared for delivery at the biennial convention of the International Brotherhood of Food Workers, which opened today in Atlantic City.

Reuther said the "international and inter-racial" character of the food workers' fight against hunger and disease is a "simple, appalling fact" that "despite such great progress, we have not done enough in the fight against hunger and disease."

Reuther said the "world's population will go to bed hungry tomorrow night unless we do something to help the hungry."

Season of Medical Auxiliary Closed With Special Meeting

The South Central Medical auxiliary closed its season Tuesday night with a special meeting which featured the official visit of the state president, Mrs. Robert S. Smith, Boise. Members and their husbands met at the Legion hall for dinner.

Mrs. Smith discussed and stressed the newly formed "Future Nurse's club" which is active now in Idaho. She also reviewed projects of the local auxiliary and was pleased with the year's achievements, particularly the nurse recruitment program.

The nurse recruitment program was the project of the local auxiliary during the past year. Members set up a program for every high school in Twin Falls county and invited all senior girls and their mothers. The auxiliary was assigned 28 high schools to cover in three days. Results were declared quite satisfactory.

The auxiliary has had a variety of programs during the past year. Speakers have included Mrs. Irene Oliver, administrator of Magie Valley Memorial hospital; Mrs. Mary Ann Knight, nursing supervisor for the southcentral district public health department; Mrs. Doris Stradley, county superintendent of education; Mrs. Harold Klobucher, administrator of the state tuberculosis hospital at Coalinga.

Programs were directed by Mrs. Morton Cutler, program chairman for the year. Mrs. Vaughn Pond has served as president.

It also was noted that the auxiliary has a student nurse's loan fund which is used to help girls planning to study at class A nursing schools.

Nepal has a national income of about $50 a year per person.

Loch Ness Monster Might Be Eel, British Scientist Believes

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—A British scientist, climaxing an inquiry into "sea serpents" today by cautiously advancing a theory that the famous Loch Ness monster may be an eel.

Dr. Maurice Burton of the Museum of Natural History made some qualifications, however, to avoid climbing out too far on a scientific limb.

Even so, Burton is the first scientist of note even to admit there might be such a critter.

Burton said he had been listening for 30 years to stories from sailors and other sea-goers who claim to have sighted some unknown animal of giant size. And for the past three decades Burton has been investigating these reports.

Many stories turned out to be optical illusions, imperfect observations, plain hoaxes and practical jokes.

But other reports came from competent observers and Burton could not dismiss them as irresponsible or inaccurate.

"The believers in sea serpents are far more numerous than might be supposed," Burton said. "But many who found the evidence credible are afraid to say so for fear of ridicule."

Burton said there was a remarkable similarity between sea serpent reports and the "sightings" of the famed denizen of Loch Ness.

"They generally refer to a beast of considerable length, moving swiftly, remaining on the surface for short periods and with a series of humps above the waterline as its most distinctive feature," Burton said.

This is the general description of the Loch Ness monster which generations of Scots and visitors to the lake have been broadcasting to a skeptical world.

Burton said the humps baffled scientists who could not imagine such an undulating spine. But now he thinks he has a possible answer.

From personal observation Burton has determined that five-foot conger eels can undulate the body so that humps appear above the waterline. They also can live in salt or fresh water, and rise to the surface only infrequently.

Burton pointed out that a three-inch larva of the common freshwater eel grows into a three-foot adult. Recently, he said, larvae three feet long have been found, indicating an adult 36 feet or longer.

A Danish expedition dredged up a larva six feet long which presumably would have become an adult 72 feet long, Burton said.

McKay Avers Water Is Top Power Source

RICHLAND, Wash., May 12 (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay said yesterday that continued development of the north-west's water resources "is of primary importance."

The federal government will carry the burden where necessary, he said, but "partnership in the power program is the logical American way to develop the resources of a river basin. And more people and more communities are coming to think along this line."

McKay's address was delivered at a Republican fund-raising dinner in Richland, site of the atomic energy commission's Hanford works. He referred to developments that promise electric power from atomic energy, but said that will only supplement the power now supplied by hydro-electric and steam plants.

"We the people of the northwest should look on atomic energy in its true perspective," he said, "namely as a supplemental source of power to help meet the country's rapidly expanding power demands and, secondly, as an opportunity for those portions of the country less fortunate than ourselves to come to know the advantages of low-cost power."

Not in the foreseeable future, he said, can atomic power be expected as cheaply as hydro power.

Local Club Okays Teacher Aid Fund

The Sororist club of Twin Falls will make available a $300 loan fund-through the Trolan-Huller revolving scholarship fund—to a teacher in the Twin Falls school system who wishes to attend summer school. The action was taken Tuesday at the club's luncheon meeting in the Rogers hotel. Any teacher interested in the fund may contact Mrs. Merritt Oregline, service chairman, telephone 693-M.

Mrs. Sterling Larson, president, announced the 13th biennial convention of the American Federation of Sororist clubs in Banff, Canada, June 27 to July 2.

Other activities discussed included the May dinner meeting at the home of Mrs. Nellie Ostrom Babcock, president, elect, installation of officers in June, and a June rummage sale. Resolutions of sympathy were extended to Mrs. Rose North and Mrs. Lora Doss Shelly for recent bereavements.

The club voted to meet socially for luncheon during July and August with no business sessions until September. The winning team in a membership contest will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Anne Robinson. Members of the losing team will be hostesses.

Frank Blaylock Is Honored by Rites

BUHL, May 12—Funeral services for Frank Blaylock, Wendell, were conducted at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Buhl LDS chapel by Bishop William K. Foltz.

Speakers were Emerson Pugmire and Milton W. Hunt and the obituary was read by Walter Blaylock. Prelude and postlude music was played by Mrs. R. A. Carlson. Soloists were sung by David Phillips and R. O. Tolman. A quartet included Elton Kendrick, Melvin Carter, Grace Blaylock and Mary Johnson. An organ solo was presented by Karl Hutchinson. Invocation was read by Roy Wood and the benediction by William J. Hutchinson.

Condolence rites were held at Buhl cemetery.

Road Crew Given Award for Safety

BOISE, May 12 (AP)—Employees of district 8 of the state highway department have received the department's quarterly first place safety award, safety director Dwight Croft announced yesterday.

Croft said the district worked 7,213 man-hours and had 24,236 equipment hours of operation during the quarter ended March 30.

"During that time there wasn't a chargeable lost time nor vehicular accident," he added. "This is especially remarkable when you stop to consider that most of the quarter was during the snow-removal hazard."

Devices Indicate Blast for Pacific

IDAHO FALLS, May 12 (AP)—Radiation detection devices at Idaho's national reactor testing station were reported to have indicated atomic radiation exceeding that of normal in this area, after an apparent fall-out during Saturday's rain.

Atomic energy commission officials said that investigation showed radiation far below harmful levels, however.

The rain apparently coincided with passage over eastern Idaho radioactive clouds, presumably from an atomic test in the Pacific.

Denial of Gas Bids Advised

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Power commission staff counsel recommended yesterday that the commission deny the application of all companies seeking to deliver natural gas to the Pacific northwest.

"None of the applicants have presented to the commission for its consideration a sufficient, proper or complete proposal upon which a determination can be made as to the issuance of a certificate of public convenience and necessity," a staff brief said.

The brief, submitted by attorney Alvin A. Kurtz, asserted that the record amassed in 192 days of hearings—extending over nearly two years—"does not contain the essential facts from which the commission would be justified in finding that any of the applicants are entitled to a certificate."

Applicants for the northwest service are Westcoast Transmission company, and Trans-Northwest Gas company, both of which would obtain gas from Canadian sources, and Pacific Northwest Pipeline corporation which proposed to tap fields in New Mexico and Colorado.

Stool Pigeons

IONIA, Mich., May 12 (AP)—A flock of pigeons helped break up an attempted escape by two inmates of the Ionia state reformatory.

Deputy Warden George Cropp said the prisoners climbed to the roof of a cell block with a 100-foot rope made of knotted sheets, intending to drop over the wall.

But the squawking of a flock of pigeons on the cell block roof attracted guards and the two men dropped 30 feet back into the prison yard, apparently afraid of being shot.

2 Nevada Slayers Sentenced to Die

RENO, Nev., May 12 (AP)—Killers Frank Pedrini, 45, and LeRoy Linden, 34, yesterday were sentenced to die the week of July 13 for the murder of a vacationing Californian who had befriended them.

The men sat passively as District Judge Harold Taber read the sentence imposed by the jury of seven women and five men which last week found the pair guilty of slaying 39-year-old Clarence Dodd, Lancaster, Calif.

Dodd picked up the pair, who were ex-prison pals at Folsom prison in California, as they were hitchhiking near Winnemucca last fall and bought them breakfast.

They strangled and shot him, then drove his new car to Texarkana, Tex., where they destroyed the machine by fire.

They were whisked away under heavy guard to the state prison in Carson City as soon as today's court session was completed.

Twin Falls Cook Prepares Salads In Hot Weather

With hot summer days coming up, when the family doesn't want a big meal, just something light and cool, any Twin Falls housewife may find herself relying on Mrs. B. B. Griggs' recipes for olive wreath molded salad and potato salad with Russian dressing.

Mrs. Griggs, who collects recipes as a hobby, says her family especially likes the salads, especially the olive wreath salad, prepared in a mold. She clipped the recipe out of a magazine and first served it at a Cub Scout annual birthday banquet last year.

Now she prepares the olive wreath salad for buffet suppers and recommends it for dessert-salad bridge parties.

Olive Wreath Mold

The ingredients are 1 No. 2 can (2½ cups) pineapple, crushed; 1 3-ounce package lime flavor gelatine, ¼ cup grated cheese, ¼ cup chopped pimiento, ¼ cup finely chopped celery, 2/3 cup chopped walnuts, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped, small stuffed olives, sliced, and curly endive.

Drain the pineapple and heat the pineapple juice to a boil. Add to the lime gelatine and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Cool. When the gelatine begins to thicken, add pineapple, cheese, pimiento, celery, nuts and salt. Fold in the whipped cream and place a row of sliced olives in the bottom of a 9-inch mold. Pour gelatine mixture into the mold and chill until firm. Arrange endive on a platter and unmold the salad on top. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Mrs. Griggs favors her potato salad recipe because she can prepare it ahead of time and let it "ripen" in the dressing overnight in the refrigerator.

Her family prefers the salad at smorgasbord, picnics and buffet suppers, she says.

Potato Salad

Use 8 medium-sized potatoes, 6 hard boiled eggs, cubed, 1 green pepper, 2 cups chopped celery, 3 small white onions, 1 can pimientos and 6 chopped sweet pickles.

Roll potatoes in jackets. When cool, peel and cut into large cubes. Add cut-up peppers, onions, pimientos, celery, pickles and eggs and toss together. Mix first with Russian dressing and then add a few spoons of mayonnaise and dash with a little vinegar. Mrs. Griggs cautions not to let the salad get too stuffy.

Russian Dressing

Russian dressing is made by mixing 1 cup mayonnaise, ¼ cup chili sauce or ¼ cup chili sauce and ¼ cup sweet relish and 1 teaspoon confectio-ners sugar.

The recipe makes about 1½ cups of dressing. Only 1 cup is needed for the potato salad, but the dressing keeps indefinitely in the refrigerator.

Luncheon Set

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

We, every one of us, have a right to be different and that right is so precious that we should guard it with our lives, if necessary. This right, this great privilege bestowed upon us is endangered by our own actions. We shiver at the thought of being set apart from the crowd in looks, manners and customs—even thought.

Children are very sensitive about being different from their brothers and sisters and friends. They want to dress alike, so that a group of them seems to wear a uniform. They want to behave as the group behaves so that rudeness, always easier to the timid and the inexperienced, becomes the standard. "Hi," is so much easier to say than "Good morning," and it is easier, too, to say, "I getcha," than it is to say, "I understand."

But the easy way, the colorless, flat, the familiar sameness is not going to lift us to where we can see a vision of life that puts wings on the spirit to carry it to heights of beauty unknown, unseen by the crowd on the flat lands of sameness. We have a right, we have a duty, to be different. We should encourage children in that belief and lead them to accept the precious difference each possesses that he may become the personage, the individual he is, by right of birth, privileged to be.

The adults set the pattern for youth. Adults have the idea that boys should play games like football, basketball and baseball and when one indicates that he cannot play those games, that he prefers doing something else, any reading, or gardening, or experimenting with some process or other that he enjoys, his father is troubled. He feels abashed by his boy's, to him, appalling difference.

The girl who isn't thrilled at the idea of being cheerleader, or the most popular girl in the school, or a movie career, is often referred to as a dud. "Everybody wants to be, she's so queer." Well, that is her privilege and her right. As long as exercising that right does not harm anybody else there is no reason for trying to make the child feel isolated from decent society.

Most important of all is the right to hold a different opinion from that of others. It may irritate a parent to learn that his child agrees with the thought of one leader, one party, while he holds to another, but it is the child's right to differ. He will argue his point and he should be allowed to do so. He may be wrong, and if so he will learn. But he has the right to his opinion. We ought to teach children to cherish their differences and come up out of the crowd to look around.

Reading stimulates thinking. Develops character and affects behavior. Every child will benefit by reading good books. Dr. Patri has made a list of more than 80 books for children in leaflet P-8, "Book List." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, c/o Times-News, P. O. Box 99, Station 5, New York 19, N. Y.

Senate Okays Ban on Court Packing Bids

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—The senate yesterday voted 88-19 for a constitutional amendment designed to prevent any future attempt to re-vamp the supreme court such as occurred in the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration.

The key proviso of the amendment would permanently fix the number of justices on the U. S. supreme court at nine. The size of the court, now determined by law but not by the constitution, has been changed a number of times in the course of history.

Age Limit
The proposed amendment would also require all federal judges to retire at 75. The oldest member of the supreme court now is Justice Felix Frankfurter, who is 71.

Before final passage, the senate knocked out a provision which would have barred justices from resigning to run for President.

Chief Justice Earl Warren twice sought the Republican presidential nomination before being named to the supreme court by President Eisenhower. In addition, Justice William O. Douglas has been mentioned as a Democratic possibility.

Goes to House
The senate-approved measure now goes to the house. If approved there by a two-thirds vote, it would then be submitted to state legislatures. To become part of the constitution, it would have to be ratified by 36 states within seven years after being submitted by congress.

The senate tally showed 43 Republicans and 18 Democrats voted for the amendment; 18 Democrats and one Independent opposed it.

Many of the votes for the amendment came from veteran senators who went through the stormy fight in 1937 when the late President Roosevelt proposed to enlarge the nation's highest tribunal.

Reds Labeled as "Treason" Party

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Senator Knowland of California, the Republican leader of the senate, declared yesterday "there is only one group that can be properly charged with being the party of treason" and that is the Communist party.

In a major speech, Knowland said he doubts whether the country ever has been faced "with a greater menace than now confronts us." He called for an end to "partisan carping criticism."

His remarks came less than 24 hours after former President Truman urged President Eisenhower to take vigorous action against forces Truman said are "destroying our national unity and the nation's position before the world."

Truman contended Republican attacks on Democrats are undermining a bipartisan foreign policy in a critical period and that Eisenhower is the man who can halt the attacks.

Compromise for Alaska Is Urged

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—A proposal to turn a vast northern area of Alaska into a military reservation was advanced yesterday as a possible compromise in the battle for Alaska statehood.

Chairman Butler, R., Neb., of the senate interior committee told a statehood-seeking delegation from Alaska that the creation of a military reservation within the boundary of the state of Alaska may be an acceptable substitute for the idea of admitting only a part of Alaska to statehood.

Butler advised the 50-member Alaska delegation to see President Eisenhower and stress your willingness to make all the outside area (outside the populated section) a military reservation.

The first diesel engines were built about 1895.

Once-Rejected Two-Price System Now Used to Unload Heavy Crop Surplus

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration once rejected the "two-price" plan as a device for supporting farm income, but it now is turning to that very mechanism in an effort to unload heavy crop surpluses.

The agriculture department now is using this plan in efforts to sell at home and abroad more wheat, flour, butter, cheese, dried milk, flaxseed and cottonseed oil, and some fruits. Corn, oats, rye, barley and grain sorghum soon may be added to this list.

Under the two-price plan, surplus commodities are sold abroad and for designated domestic uses at prices below those paid producers under a government price support system. The loss is absorbed by the treasury.

Other farm groups strongly urged the administration to include such a plan for some crops in the farm program President Eisenhower sent congress in January. The administration farm program is based on flexible price floors, instead of the rigid, high level props now in use.

The Grange, in advocating the two-price system, would not require the taxpayers to pay the full support price for all that farmers produced.

Instead, farmers would get the full support price for that portion of a surplus crop consumed in this country for specified uses. But that part of the crop marketed abroad or for general use in this country would be sold for whatever price it would get under competitive conditions.

Wheat, for example, is bringing the farmer an average of about $2.06 a bushel. But sales are being made abroad at about 60 cents a bushel below the price the farmer gets, with the government absorbing the loss. The same goes for flour.

The agriculture department is awaiting reluctant state department approval before putting other grains on a cut-rate price basis for export sales.

Recent expansion in the use of the two-price plan is being made largely under pressure of farm leaders in congress. These contend that the only way to reduce surpluses and to get this country's "fair" share of world markets is to make American prices competitive with those of other exporting countries in world markets. The state department has for years

Speaker Declares U. S. Lagging on Bacteria Defense

VICTORIA, B. C., May 12 (AP)—Col. W. M. Robertson, California civil defense director, said yesterday that the United States could not prepare to meet bacteriological or chemical warfare in two years.

Speaking to the conference of the Far Western Association of Civil Defense Directors, Colonel Robertson said:

"We are so backward in any frowned upon cut-rate prices in world markets, contending that they lead other countries to accuse the U. S. of dumping.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson seeks to expand exports by reducing price supports when supplies become large. Under his plan the domestic and export price would go down correspondingly.

Idaho's Senate Backs

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—The senate roll call on a constitutional amendment to fix the size of the supreme court at nine, all federal judges to be 75 included.

For the amendment, Utah, Idaho, and the three associate-member western Canadian provinces.

Against the amendment, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan.

The wobbling of the axis is called the pre-equinoxes and one takes place every day.

Top Court Upholds Award to Deputy

BOISE, May 12 (AP)—Everett H. Hudson, deputy sheriff of Bingham county and part-time bartender in the village of Atomic City, won supreme court approval yesterday of a $9,061 compensation award for shotgun wounds he received in a fracas in a village cafe.

Hudson had been awarded the sum by the industrial accidents board after a customer entered the cafe where he worked and fired on him.

The cafe owner, Max Roberts, appealed the ruling, arguing that Hudson was not injured in the line of duty, and that the county and city should bear the expense in any case.

2 Reservoirs To Help Trim Flood Crests

PORTLAND, May 12 (AP)—Reservoirs of Grand coulee and Hungry Horse dams in the Columbia basin will be used to lower the spring-flood crest, the Columbia basin inter-agency committee decided Tuesday.

The CBIAC's water management committee reported that the level of Grand coulee reservoir will be held as low as possible in anticipation of a heavy spring runoff. The reservoir will be able to hold an additional 120,000 acre feet of water.

The full 2,980,000 acre feet of available storage space at Hungry Horse dam on the Kootenai river in Montana also will be used for flood control this spring.

Army engineers estimated that full use of storage facilities of the two reservoirs will reduce the flood crest 1 1/2 feet in the Portland-Vancouver area.

The committee heard a joint weather bureau-soil conservation flood forecast which stated that Bonners Ferry, Ida., on the Kootenai river can expect a flood crest of 35.3 feet—2 of a foot more than the disastrous 1948 flood.

Let's talk about the quality of Coke

When you raise a frosty bottle of Coke to your lips, you'll agree that the flavor is unique and delicious. Refreshing, too. But you might ask—how is it made? Is it wholesome? Pure?

Well, let's take a look behind the scenes.

The water you drink may be good enough for ordinary use. But Coca-Cola needs something more—a treated water made neutral to taste to protect the delicate flavor of the drink. Nine sunny climes contribute the good things that go into Coke and each ingredient is tested for taste, strength and purity. Sparkling clean bottles scurry along the lines of stainless steel to be filled and crowned under the eyes of trained operators.

Quality is maintained in other ways, too. The Coca-Cola Company holds classes for bottling plant personnel. Traveling laboratories, manned by graduate chemists and engineers, criss-cross the nation, bringing to plants everywhere the latest refinements in quality control.

Utah Auto Crash Kills Californians

CEAR CITY, Utah, May 12 (AP)—A California couple, en route to Salt Lake City to attend a funeral, was killed yesterday afternoon when a car went out of control on a curve.

The Utah highway patrol identified the victims as George Arnold Smith, 50, and his wife, Mrs. Kreska Smith, about 45, San Diego.

The accident, about 10 miles south of Cedar City, occurred at 1:50 p. m. Investigating officers said the auto skidded and rolled 480 feet. Mrs. Smith was thrown from the car before it stopped rolling, and her husband was thrown 94 feet beyond the point where the auto stopped. Both were killed outright.

The deaths doomed Utah's highway fatality toll to 14 for May—well over one a day—and to 57 for the year.

BOISE, May 12 (AP)—The state of Idaho and its political subdivisions paid nearly $100,000 more into social security funds in the first quarter of this year than last, Auditor N. P. Nielson reported yesterday.

Nielson said—payments totalled $307,875, with 13,855 persons covered. In 1953, it was $216,183 and 13,584 persons.

The auditor pointed out that the rate of social security payments went up during the year and "salaries seemed greater" also.

Plymouth

is your "best buy"

in the lowest-price field!

Recently a 1954 Plymouth and current models of the other two best-known low-price cars were taken apart by Plymouth engineers and compared, part by part. Standard "stock" models were used. We've listed some typical findings below.

Plymouth is "best buy" in many ways. Here are just a few!

	low-price Plymouth	low-price car "A"	low-price car "B"
Front Wheel Brakes Plymouth engineers provide two hydraulic brake cylinders in each front wheel brake to ensure smooth, controlled stops without "grabbing." The "other two" in the lowest-price field have only one.
Seat Springs Plymouth uses coil seat springs since they give longer-lasting support. The other two cars have a zigzag-platform type. Also, Plymouth's front seat "springs-on-springs" design adds more comfort.
Piston Rings Plymouth engineers use four rings on each piston, resulting in decreased carbon deposit, more consistent power output. Top ring is chrome plated to give greater oil economy, allow faster "break-in" driving.
Body Mounts Plymouth's thick live-rubber body mounts prevent metal-to-metal contact and protect body from shock and vibration. Just look at the difference between Plymouth's mounts and the thin type used by the "other two"!
Micronic Oil Filter This unit, standard on most Plymouth models, keeps abrasive dirt out of the engine, thus reducing wear and achieving greater oil economy. This feature is available at extra cost on the other two low-price cars.

And dozens of other part-by-part comparisons prove Plymouth is your "best buy"! See us today... and get the facts!

Ask us for the big illustrated booklet that shows how Plymouth leads in frame construction... engine design... performance... economy... comfort... safety. Then...

Sales, Output Of Autos Are Getting Close

DETROIT, May 12 (AP)—Automobile production and sales are coming into closer balance.

This means retail deliveries are increasing. It also means that, contrary to earlier predictions, the seasonal upturn has taken on encouraging proportions.

But field stocks still are high. Latest unofficial estimates put the over-all dealer inventories at 610,000 cars. That total still is close to a record high for the industry.

Problem Exists
The stocks, of course, include relatively few of the new 1953 models that plagued dealers during January, February and part of March. But they do present a problem for the industry's merchandising division.

Even with a further substantial upturn in new car sales the peak of the industry's selling season probably will find most dealers with more cars than customers.

Third Best in Sales
The January-March period was the industry's third best in retail sales volume. Most trade experts are confident the January-June period will rank as the third best comparable period in retail deliveries.

Occasionally you can hear some industry optimist ask "What's wrong with the third best year in auto history?"

Obviously there isn't anything wrong with it, provided it applies to sales as well as to production. So far all reference to 1954 as the industry's third best year has been based chiefly on its potential production.

Output Equals Demand
This probably stems from the fact that for the first time in the post-war period the industry last year was able to build as many cars as the market required.

The current year's output may reach 5 1/2 million passenger cars. Nobody yet has been bold enough to predict retail sales will reach that figure. Some trade analysts have put their sales estimates as high as five million. Others start as low as 4 1/2 million.

Whatever the total, industry inventories are going to be of major concern to manufacturer and retailer alike long before the year's end.

School Panel, Patrons Meet

FILER, May 12—A group of taxpayers and teachers met with the Filer school board Monday night at the school house to discuss what can be done about the number of teachers who are leaving the school system at the end of the current school term.

Of the 12 teachers not returning, more than half are leaving for better positions, Ralph Ward, chairman of the board reported.

Nothing concrete was accomplished at the meeting, Ward said, but some of the taxpayers said they are in back of the school board in its decisions.

The board also held its public budget hearing Monday and no objections were voiced to the 25-mill levy. W. M. Bunce, Jr., Kern Thurman and V. R. Hunt, members of the city council, also met with the board to discuss the summer recreation program.

The school district appropriated $50 a month for the program and agreed to furnish transportation to children wishing to participate. Council members announced plans to oil and build a one-way street near Victory school.

Chief of Defense Alleges Security Is Safe in Army

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson said last night he thought the army and defense department are "entirely capable of taking care" of their own security problems.

He added that "doesn't mean I would not cooperate" with congressional investigations.

At a news conference before he left on a three-weeks' trip to the far east, Wilson was asked if he or other defense department officials had sought to get Army Secretary Stevens to go along with the Dirksen motion to shorten public hearings in the McCarthy-army row.

Wilson replied that Stevens "made his own decision," which was to oppose the Dirksen motion.

"There is one thing I would like to say about this apparent controversy between Senator McCarthy and the army," Wilson asserted.

"The army and the whole defense department has excellent security procedures."

"The army is entirely capable of taking care of the problem."

USDA Boosts Hard Wheat's Support Rate

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—The agriculture department announced yesterday it will support grower prices for 1954 crop of hard-amber durum, amber durum and No. 1 heavy hard red spring wheat at higher rates than last year.

But support rates for soft wheat will be reduced to below last year.

Reflects Differences
These changes are designed, the department said, to reflect more adequately actual market class differences in the classes of wheat in recent years.

The loan rates are designed to reflect, for the whole crop, an average of $2.20 a bushel at the farm compared with $2.21 for last year's crop.

County support rates will range from $1.84 for wheat at distant points from markets to $2.45 for grain close to major markets.

This difference is designed to reflect transportation and handling costs in moving grain from distant points to major markets.

Rates Listed
Under this year's program, a price support of 10 cents a bushel will be offered for hard amber durum wheat, 4 cents for amber durum and 1 cent for No. 1 heavy hard red spring wheat. These classes are grown principally in the upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys.

Soft wheat put under price support west of the Rocky mountains will be subject to a loan discount of 2 cents a bushel and those east of the Rockies will be discounted 4 cents. These types are grown in wide areas, but principally east of the great plains.

Window Smashed By Falling Pump

A five foot submersible pump, owned by the Floyd Lilly company, toppled and crashed through the display window of the Idaho Power company on Main avenue late Tuesday afternoon, shattering glass over much of the corner sidewalk.

A representative of the Power company said the pump was the largest of several types of pumps on display in the window, but he did not know what caused it to fall through the window.

Judgment Asked

Ray Reese was named defendant in a district court civil suit for non-payment of a $64.35 grocery bill by Ralph and Lloyd Martin on behalf of the East Side market Tuesday. The Martins, represented by Guy L. Kinney, claim Reese owes the sum for merchandise sold him from April 11, 1953, to March 26, 1954. They seek judgment against Reese ordering payment of this bill.

Oregon Firm Bids Lowest on Bridge Over Pend Oreille

BOISE, May 12 (AP)—H. G. Palmberg, Astoria, Ore., was $200,000 lower than the next lowest bidder yesterday on the remaining contract for replacement of the wooden bridge over Lake Pend Oreille at Sandpoint.

Palmberg's bid of $664,225 was apparent low bid to construct 1.1 miles of filled-in roadway from Sandpoint south. The next lowest was $863,845, submitted by Guy F. Atkinson, Seattle.

Mountain States Construction company, Pocatello, was apparent low bidder on surfacing seven miles of U. S. highway 20 alternate from Driggs to Olawson in Teton county. The firm bid $38,770.

Grant Construction, Coeur d'Alene, submitted the apparent low bid of $23,375 to furnish crushed rock for stockpiles in the vicinity of Potlatch.

A low bid of $1,135,332 was submitted last month for the southern half of the Pend Oreille project, which includes a bridge over the lake on U. S. 95.
